

HUNTINGTON MEDICAL FOUNDATION

Chia-Chieh Hu, M.D.

SPECIALTY

Pediatrics

JOINED HMF

2001

EDUCATION/TRAINING

Pediatric Internship and Residency
Harbor UCLA Medical Center
Torrance, CA

M.D., Washington University
School of Medicine
St. Louis, MO

B.A, Anthropology and Molecular Cell
Biology
University of California, Berkeley

SUMMARY OF EXPERIENCE

Before joining HMF, Dr. Hu was in private practice first in San Francisco, then Arcadia.

He has been on the pediatrics staff at both Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, and Methodist Hospital in Arcadia, where he served as the chairperson of pediatrics in 2005 and 2006.

Committed to patient education, he teaches the Baby Care Basics class at Methodist and is a frequent participant at community health fairs.

During his college years, he was a research assistant in biochemistry and a research fellow in the psychobiology of ethnicity, a study of ethnic differences and similarities among patients in response to psychotropic drugs.

AFFILIATIONS

- American Academy of Pediatrics
- American Board of Pediatrics

ON A PERSONAL NOTE

While Dr. Hu enjoys normal hobbies like gardening, photography and camping, they pale in comparison to his favorite spectator sport.

“I am a college football fanatic,” he admits. His favorite team is the University of California Golden Bears.

“During football season I apologize to my patients on Mondays because my voice is hoarse from screaming at games over the weekend,” he says.

Since cheering from the stands (or couch) is not much of a workout, Dr. Hu stays in shape by practicing martial arts.