ON A PERSONAL NOTE

Medicine is a family affair for Dr. Salamon. Her mother is a nurse, and her father, older brother and uncle are orthopedic surgeons. Long before college, she volunteered at a hospital in her hometown of Stockton, California.

Dr. Salamon says she was drawn to pediatrics because children are “honest little beings” who say exactly what’s on their minds. She enjoys seeing her young patients grow and develop.

Outside the office, she enjoys cooking and taking hikes with her feisty black pug. In the winter, she makes time for skiing, a sport she learned at age 4.

Dr. Salamon and her husband live in West Hollywood, but are searching for the perfect house in the Pasadena area.
