

HUNTINGTON MEDICAL FOUNDATION

Alisa T. Yang, M.D.

SPECIALTY

Internal medicine and Geriatrics

JOINED HMF

2005

EDUCATION/TRAINING

Certification, Geriatric Medicine,
American Board of Internal Medicine

Fellow, Geriatric Medicine
Los Angeles County/USC Medical Center

Certification, Internal Medicine
American Board of Internal Medicine

Residency, Internal Medicine
Los Angeles County/USC Medical Center

M.D., School of Medicine
Temple University
Philadelphia

B.A., Spanish
Cornell University
Ithaca, New York

SUMMARY OF EXPERIENCE

Prior to joining HMF, Dr. Yang was pursuing her dual interests in internal medicine and geriatrics.

While Dr. Yang treats adults of all ages, she enjoys working with the senior population and the challenges associated with aging. Her goal is to help people to improve the quality of their lives as they age. She believes that a successful therapeutic approach for each individual includes integrating healthy lifestyle choices with evidence-based treatment strategies.

Dr. Yang majored in the Spanish language at Cornell University and studied abroad in Spain for 6 months. She has since lost her castellano accent but welcomes Spanish-speaking patients.

ON A PERSONAL NOTE

Dr. Yang was born in Connecticut but grew up in San Marino. She attended San Marino High School.

She comes from a family of physicians and married into a family of physicians. Her father was a hematologist/oncologist in Monterey Park. Her sister is a rheumatologist, her sister's fiancé is an internist, and her husband is an allergist. Her brother-in-law is currently a budding physician as well. Debating medical issues and exchanging clinical strategies of diagnosis and treatment are frequent topics of family conversation.

In her free time, which hardly ever happens, Dr. Yang would love to pursue her passion for salsa and merengue dancing. She loves any type of movie with a good story (except for horror films). She is currently trying to learn to cook flavorful dishes—low fat, low salt, and low carb.